

Idaho's occasional severe storms, including hail and high winds, can cause significant roof damage, and Bork Roofing's roofers address these issues throughout Boise and the Treasure Valley. Storm damage repair often involves coordination with a homeowner's insurance company, an area where Bork's experience helps ensure fair claim handling and proper repair scope. Some storm damage is immediately obvious, while other issues may not become apparent until months later, making a professional inspection valuable after any significant weather event.
