The termite most Roanoke homeowners deal with is the eastern subterranean termite, a soil dwelling species that is common across Virginia. Unlike drywood termites found farther south, these insects build their colonies pest control company Roanoke underground and travel up into a home through mud tubes no wider than a pencil. Perdue Exterminators has been tracking and treating them in the Roanoke Valley for more than five decades, and the pattern is remarkably consistent.

Colonies need moisture, and Virginia supplies it. Humid summers, red clay soil that holds water, and crawl spaces that stay damp most of the year give subterranean termites ideal conditions. Older homes in neighborhoods like Old Southwest, Grandin Village and Wasena often have wooden porches, original sill plates and additions built decades apart, each one a potential entry point. Newer construction in Cave Spring and Salem is not immune either, since termites can find gaps in slab foundations and around plumbing penetrations.

In spring, mature colonies release winged swarmers to start new colonies. Many people first notice termites when dozens of these winged insects appear near a sunny window or a basement door, usually after a warm rain. The swarmers themselves do not eat wood, but they are a clear sign that an established colony is nearby, possibly inside the structure. Learn here Discarded wings on a windowsill are another giveaway.

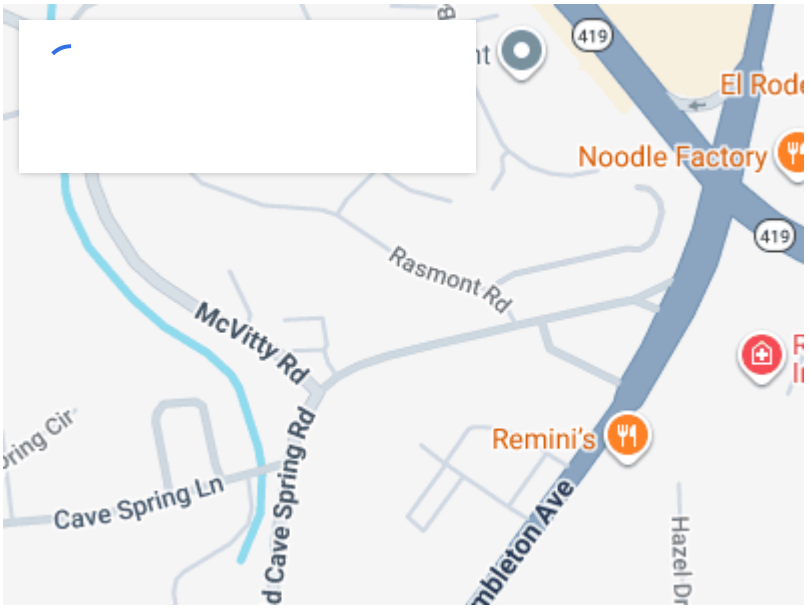

Why Professional Treatment Matters

Store bought products rarely reach a subterranean colony because the termites are living underground and moving through hidden tubes. Perdue's licensed exterminators inspect the home's construction to find active tubes, damaged wood and moisture sources, then recommend treatment designed to stop the problem at the source. Termite elimination from Perdue comes with renewable annual warranties, which suits a pest that keeps returning season after season in this climate.

Homeowners can help by reducing the moisture that keeps colonies thriving. Make sure gutters and downspouts carry rainwater well away from the foundation, keep crawl space vents clear, and repair plumbing leaks promptly. Avoid piling mulch, firewood or lumber against the house, since all three create a bridge between damp soil and structural wood. If you are buying a home, a wood destroying insect report from Perdue gives you a clear picture of past and present termite activity before closing, which is far better than finding out after you have moved in.

Are termites common in Roanoke, Virginia?

Yes. Eastern subterranean termites live in the soil across the Roanoke Valley, and humid summers, clay soil and damp crawl spaces give them ideal conditions. Swarms usually appear on warm spring days after rain. Perdue Exterminators has treated termites in local homes for more than five decades.

Do termite treatments come with a warranty?

At Perdue Exterminators, termite elimination comes with renewable annual warranties. Renewing each year keeps a professional inspecting the home and keeps protection in place, which suits a region where termite pressure returns every season. A documented warranty can also help when you sell your Roanoke home.

How can I tell if I have bed bugs?

Common signs are itchy bites in lines or clusters, small dark spots on sheets and mattress seams, and tiny reddish brown insects around the bed frame or headboard. Because other insects look similar, Perdue Exterminators starts every bed bug case in Roanoke, Salem and Vinton with a free inspection and consultation to confirm the problem first.

Yes. Perdue Exterminators describes itself as a humane, eco friendly rodent control company and uses baits and traps that do not rely on toxic poisons. What areas does Perdue Exterminators serve?

Why are there so many crickets in my basement?

Camel crickets thrive in damp basements and crawl spaces, which are common in older Roanoke homes with stone or block foundations. Reducing moisture with a dehumidifier and repaired gutters helps a great deal. Perdue Exterminators provides cricket extermination and also helps eliminate and control crawl space mold caused by the same dampness.

Is a local pest control company better than a national chain?

A local company usually means familiar technicians, a local office that answers the phone and real knowledge of area housing and pest patterns. Perdue Exterminators has a technician who has been with the company since 1980, and its motto is large enough to serve you, but small enough to know you.

How long has Perdue Exterminators been in business?

S.G. Perdue founded the company in 1969, starting out of his house and the trunk of his car. His son Andre later joined the business, and today it is led by owner and President Jeff Hudson. It remains a family owned pest control company serving Roanoke.
